

For submission to the Foreigners Authority

Certification of a private health insurance coverage, for the granting of a residence title

(to be completed by the health insurance company)

Pursuant to section 5, subsection 1, no. 1, German Residence Act (AufenthG), the granting of a residence title usually requires a secured livelihood. Integral part of a secured livelihood is, pursuant to section 2, subsection 3, AufenthG, the possession of an adequate health insurance coverage.

Foreign nationals who are not insured under a statutory health insurance must prove to possess health insurance coverage by means of a private health insurance. This private health insurance coverage must meet the following criteria:

- a) The insurance company is supervised by the German Federal Financial Supervisory Authority (BaFin) or is authorised as EU/EEA service provider in its country of origin.
- b) The insurance coverage is unlimited in duration and does not comprise any expiry or termination clause as regards a specific age, the cessation of an activity, the change of the residence purpose, or the loss of a legal residence status (exemption for residence periods of less than 60 months).
- c) The insurance covers at least all benefits of the basic tariff (as defined in section 152, German Insurance Supervision Act [VAG]).
- d) Switching to the basic tariff is possible in principle.
- e) Ageing provisions are being accrued pursuant to section 146, subsection 1, no. 3, VAG (exemption for residence periods of less than 60 months)
- f) The monthly insurance excess does not exceed 100 €.
- g) An additional long-term care insurance pursuant to section 23, German Social Security Code, Book XI (SGB XI) is taken out.
